THE TWELFTH QUENINGTON
SCULPTURE
SUNDAY 14TH JUNE - SUNDAY 5TH JULY SHOW

FRESHAIR 2015

WELCOME...

Inside the library doors is Norma Starszakowna's wonderful landscape abstraction, on cotton, of 2008.

On it are stamped the words See; Poetry; Hear; Music; Touch - nouns and verbs - a perfect link to the type of work Ana Bianchi and Miranda Leonard install in the garden at Quenington Old Rectory.

This is our 12th Fresh Air and once more we are hoping to entice new and well-practiced patrons to start or extend their collections - as the Sculpture Trust must sell work in order to continue with their charitable aims. We help artists through showing and selling their work, provide bursaries and apprenticeships as well as running an extensive education programme. This year, in addition to Laurence Lawson's apprenticeship with Fred Baier and Faith Mercer's with Colin Reid; Faith, through the Honourable Company of Gloucestershire, was awarded a travel bursary, which took her to Prague, northern and eastern Bohemia and Brno to meet other glass artists and see collections. My thanks goes to my colleague in Reality and Beyond Ltd, Harriet Landseer who is based in Prague, for all her help in organising this trip.

Visitors to Fresh Air 2015 will not have to travel so far afield to find fresh ideas nor artists to see what their peers are up to. This is especially useful for those who have just finished college at Stroud and Hereford.

Increasingly the 'arts and crafts' and indeed, Art History are being banished from the school curriculum and art-orientated school clubs appear rare. Our schools' programme is increasingly valuable, guided by the same team as we inherited from the excellent programme started by Brewery Arts and Miranda Leonard many years ago.

Young people gain confidence through being able to enjoy and express opinions on the wide range of artwork in natural surroundings (less daunting than a gallery) and in being able to handle original pieces. Hence the emergence of ECCO where our exhibitors are encouraged to produce work for sale to those who are 18 and under. Parental interference is forbidden!

As in past years, we hope all our visitors have a pleasurable time at Fresh Air 2015 and will return. As far as Hear; Music; Touch are concerned see if you can discover Michael Fairfax's tree harps.

Lucy Abel Smith

poetry

There has been a rectory in Quenington since the time of the Knights' Hospitallers in the twelfth century. It belonged to an important group of buildings which included the Church, The Knights' preceptory, farm, barns, dovecote, mills and mill race until the Reformation. The earliest surviving part of the house is the old kitchen adjacent to what had been the lavatory, now the boat house.

in the Cotswold style in 1930. David and Lucy have made their contribution to the house in the form of a circular library designed by Michael Gold on the south side balancing the boat house. This was completed towards the end of 2008.

The façade facing the river is seventeenth to mid eighteenth century of which only one sash window remains. The rectors involved with the various builds have their monuments in the church of St. Swithins. The house was bought from the Church in 1928 by Elizabeth Bazley who, with her husband Christopher Blunt, made many changes. Her mother, previously living at Hatherop Castle, and stepfather, Commander Cadogan lived here. David Abel Smith's step mother (née Cadogan) and father commissioned the Stroud architects Falconers to modify the building in the late 1960s. The façade facing the lawn is c1800. The addition to the north was built

Mrs Cadogan was a great gardener, and it was she who laid out the structure of the present garden. Further enlargements were later made by Lady Abel Smith especially in the area of the Pool Garden. Esmé Bradburne arrived in 1987 (her memorial by Gary Breeze is in the garden on a tree). She helped Lucy Abel Smith and Robert Wyatt, turn the garden organic.

Lucy has further developed the planting and finds it difficult to stop. The last mill wheel of the Quenington corn mill is now resting by the road bridge and this is the newest area to receive attention.

The three week Education Programme has been organised by Miranda Leonard to run alongside the exhibition. Approximately 640 children will take part in either a tour of the show led by professional artists and tutors culminating in sculpture workshops, or a self-led visit supported by the curators. We have a very experienced art team and each workshop is tailor made to suit their age, needs and abilities; challenge their expectations and inspire them to make work of their own.

We seek out new schools every year and reach out from Gloucestershire into Oxfordshire, Wiltshire and Swindon. Some of the schools involved in this year's education programme are:

Paternoster School, Cirencester · Heart of the Forest School, Coleford · Alderman Knight School, Tewkesbury · Springfield School, Witney · Star College, Cheltenham · Peak Academy, Dursley · Eastcombe C of E Primary School · Pates Grammar School, Cheltenham · Riverside EOTAS, Swindon · Cotswold Chine School, Dursley · St Luke's School, Swindon · Farmors' School, Fairford · Milestone School, Gloucester · Sherborne C of E Primary · Uffington Primary School · Hatherop C of E Primary School · St Andrew's Primary School, Chedworth · Ribston Hall School · Southrop Primary School · Meadow Park Primary School, Cricklade · St. Lawrence C of E Primary School, Lechlade · Prior Park Prep School, Cricklade · St Andrews Primary School, Chedworth.

Some comments after the 2013 Education Programme:

"Short activities and tour were guided by the children and their interests and explained well" Bettridge School

"I thought the tutors were brilliant. They engaged the students well and some students who find it hard to work with new people did" Ruskin Mill College

"Loved the large sensory construction pieces. Excellent preparation by staff" Paternoster School

ECCO!

(Encouraging Children to Collect (art) Objects)

ECCO will again be a feature at Fresh Air 2015. We are asking every exhibitor to donate a working sketch or model. These will be for sale in the entry tent and will only be sold to young people aged 18 years and under. Prices will be kept to £10 - £60. We aim to catch budding collectors early on and to encourage the excitement of collecting original works of art.

To all our visitors...
a big 'THANK YOU' from the Quenington Sculpture Trust.

Over the last 5 shows, you have helped us raise funds and achieve the following:

- More than £50,000 has been given to finance work experience placements and apprenticeships. This has allowed young artists to learn from some of the masters in the world of sculpture, including Fred Baier and Colin Reid.
- Nearly £35,000 has been given to artists in the form of bursaries - allowing them to develop their work in directions which might otherwise have stayed unexplored.
- Over £45,000 has gone into our education programme, the majority of which was given in donations to local children's and youth groups, allowing them to visit museums, galleries, etc. or take part in activities designed to generate an understanding of the art and craft of sculpture.

Phone Kiosk Challenge

A local supporter of the arts has generously funded a competition to create an art installation in Quenington's neglected red phone box.

A local team of Joey Casey, James Sweeting and Nick Wood made the successful proposal to create the 'Quenington exchange'. Look out for it next to the Keeper's Arms.

Strutt and Parker Bursary

Our bursaries are an important part of Fresh Air and we are grateful to Strutt and Parker who are sponsoring Julia Vandoorne to create a multidisciplinary art video with dance and sound to capture Quenington throughout the four seasons.

Quenington Sculpture Trust Bursaries have been awarded to:

Radek Rudniki who is showing a new media installation featuring abstract visualisations, sound and music.

Helen Snell for the development of her practice to show outdoor work.

Two £10,000 apprenticeships have been funded this year:

The Finnis Scott Trust and Quenington Sculpture Trust has awarded Faith Mercer a Hot Glass Apprenticeship to develop her pate de verre technique working with Colin Reid.

The Quenington Sculpture Trust and the Artisa Foundation awarded a Furniture Design Apprenticeship to:

Laurence Lawson, allowing him to work with and learn with Fred Baier.

The Honourable Company of Gloucestershire generously funded a travel bursary, which took Faith Mercer to Prague, northern and eastern Bohemia and Brno to meet other glass artists and see collections.

Faith Mercer

Julia Vandoorne

Six Foundation students from Stroud College of Art and Design and seven 2nd Year Contemporary Applied Arts and Blacksmith's BA Degree Course students from Hereford College of Art have been invited to make work to be exhibited at Fresh Air 2015. The two courses encompass a wide range of approaches to making art and we are hoping for some original thinking and fresh ideas. These young artists will have the opportunity to conceptualise and create work in a completely different environment from their college practice. It is a unique opportunity for students to plan and execute work for a public exhibition with up to 15,000 visitors over a three-week period and a full education programme with over 900 children taking part. We hope to accelerate the development of new ideas, new knowledge and new enterprises.

The Netherton Prize of £250 will be awarded to the most promising graduate student, to assist in the development of their work. The Curator's Prize, also £250, will be awarded to the best Foundation student sculpture.

AMY TRUSCOTT

Religion and Psychology

My work explores the relationship between religion and psychology. I aim to produce a sculpture that links to the idea of finding peace through therapy and religious practice.

ASHU SHARMA

Simple

This chair is based on the concept of simplicity and the themes of Buddhism and Modernism. The ideas are inspired by my recent trips to India and Rome.

MILO KESTER

Quietus

In our culture, death is something we avoid talking about. If a death does occur to someone we know or we lose someone ourselves it can be emotionally devastating. In contrast other cultures celebrate death; maybe this makes them more able to deal with its effects.

KERRY HUTCHINSON

Fragments

A fragmented or broken object is my starting point; my ideas developing through research into sentimentality and fetishism, in order to explore the literal and personal values of objects.

BARNEY CROSSLEY

Movement

When researching for this sculpture I split up ideas of movement into several different categories; political, cultural, philosophical, social, mechanical and natural.

JOSEF KASPAR

Blending in/Standing out

The human condition is a recurring theme in my work, in particular, focusing on the idea of growing up. The title, 'Blending In/Standing Out' explores how we naturally conform but it also refers to those who cannot or will not.

AIDEN BEAMISH

Flow

Flow is a beautiful, natural-powered kinetic sculpture. Immersed in water, it generates its own external sculptural element of ripples and eddies in the river. The piece was inspired by traditional blacksmithing techniques, reinterpreted to form a contemporary design.

BEN WALKER

Untitled

Inspired by the outdoors, this piece represents the balance between inside and outside. To be inside a form, yet still connect with the surrounding nature. Partially submerged, the piece invites viewers to re-examine the cube, and contemplate what we normally take for granted.

CHRISTIAN VAUGHAN JONES

Attaining Monumentality

My work explores the energy and controlled brutality of splitting stone. The moment of impact that cleaves the stone in two is contained within a steel frame, secured under tension. By exploiting the fractious nature of stone and the tensile strength of steel, I create objects that deal with the separation and unity.

ELLA MAE SIBLEY SPARLING

Mangata

Mangata is an interactive sculpture inspired by the negative geometric shapes found in a waterwheel. It is driven by the idea of reflection. Reflection of forms found in the garden, reflections within its metallic surface, and reflection of the sunlight through the glass.

Christian Vaughan Jones

JOEL BLACK

Stepping Stones

A series of steel stepping stones designed to invite the viewer to follow a pathway of narrative text punched into the surface of each step, then to turn and be rewarded with a new perspective. I am intrigued by objects which present a pathway, pulling someone from their comfort zone, challenging their perception and normal experiences of everyday life.

Cygnus

Swans on the water at Quenington Old Rectory are the inspiration for this work. To me, they encapsulate all that is beautiful and pure in nature. It is this ethereal quality I strive to evoke via a process of making that is driven by my passion for digital technologies.

SAMANTHA MCNAMARA

Revolve

My creative practice explores ways to capture the beauty of the environment within a material, shape and form. Allowing the natural elements to dictate and inspire the mood of the sculpture, Revolve transmits light through its cylindrical columns evoking a sense of elegance and timelessness.

ESME'S GARDEN

This year's exhibition is a mini garden built inside the Pool House gallery. Curated by Miranda Leonard and Fiona Haser, it's a celebration of women in horticulture. It brings the outside in; honouring the women who created

Esme inspecting compost with Robert Wyatt in 1989

Esme on retirement aged 89

many of the gardens we know and love today.

Esme Bradburne was head gardener here at the Old Rectory until her death in 2000. She studied agriculture at Oxford and put her passion and knowledge into practice in the herbaceous borders, vegetable garden and rose walk.

A founding member of the Soil Association, Esme's organic gardening legacy continues today in the stewardship of Lucy Abel Smith and head gardener Robert Wyatt.

Rob Kessler's larger than life 'micrographs' of pollen take us to the place beyond what we can see with the naked eye. The bold images start our journey of discovery. From botany to bounty the exhibition investigates things growing. Jo Golesworthy also uses microscopic images of pollen and feels compelled to make images in the architectural material of carved stone. Serena Partridge is fascinated by history and creates tiny costume items which replicate female dress. These will tell the story of mysterious plant collecting women and she renders her 'follies' more mysterious as they take on museum acquisition labels and tell fictional stories. Nature provides the source material for much of Patrick Haines' work. He likes to create an 'uneasy juxtaposition' of found objects - often cast in bronze and antique objects and books. Sarah Macrae makes delicate colourful jewellery in silver and polypropylene which she dyes and heat forms to make pieces inspired by underwater plants and seaweeds. Textile designer Pazuki has been commissioned to design unique silk scarves using the gardens here at the Old Rectory as inspiration. Electric Daisy Flower Farm has produced a calendar celebrating the seasonality of flowers and product designer Chris Eckersley has created a bespoke jewellery box, inspired by the library in the garden.

The Pool House will be filled with beautiful things for you to take away to remind you of your horticultural ancestors. Meanwhile, outside, it's Esme's Garden that creates the framework and the backdrop for the Fresh Air sculpture biennial that we enjoy today.

3. Awake!

Limestone
110x48x5cms
£1,230

Born in Devon in 1951, Catherine has lived and worked in Wiltshire/Gloucestershire for more than 30 years. A mixed media artist, Catherine began letter cutting in 2000. Her work since then has almost exclusively been with stone in the form of commissions and exhibition pieces.

3. Awake! by Catherine Aspray

FRED BAIER

4. Garden Seat

Cast concrete
100x50x50cms
£1,730

Fred is an innovative, internationally-acclaimed, furniture designer-maker directing a small studio in Wiltshire. He graduated from the Royal College of Art in the 1970s and taught at, what is now, the Faculty of Arts (University of Brighton). A pioneer designer of the 1970s, 80s, 90s and today, he has experimented with radical structures and forms. He employs one permanent assistant and a graduate intern sponsored by the Quenington Sculpture Trust. His essay, Vision and Reality, is recommended reading for aspiring furniture design students and his furniture graces the library at the House of Lords.

JULIE BALL

5. Summer Collection

Commissions for a similar work can be undertaken

Julie is an art graduate who enjoys combining her love of art and the outdoors to create installations that encourage people to interact with their environment. Summer Collection is a collaborative project, sponsored by Quenington Sculpture Trust, between Julie, Leonard Cheshire Disability, Cheltenham and young people working with NADFAS. Commissions and other project work undertaken.

DIANA BARRACLOUGH

6. Boulders

3 x Semi glazed and incised
3 x Black clay with porcelain inlay
Approx 38x38cms
£500 each

Diana gained her degree in ceramics at Bournemouth College of Art in 1968. During her course she worked for David Leach and, afterwards, for Mary Rich. Her journey through ceramics has been a long and varied one. She has been making clay pebbles ever since she was at art college and is happiest scouring the beach for the very best she can find that day. Particularly prized are the ones with natural inclusions, as they represent drawings of the surrounding landscape.

10. Three Hawks Plaque

Bronze
 60x23x5cms
£3,500

Adam lives and works in the Cotswolds where the bountiful and diverse environment provides endless resource for his inspiration. One of Britain's leading wildlife sculptors, Adam has a signature fluid style of simple lines and flowing forms depicting both movement and emotion that beautifully captures the essence of his subjects. Working primarily in bronze with earthy rich patinas, Adam's work is recognised and collected all over the world. Adam won the David Shepherd Wildlife Artist of the Year in 2010 and was elected a Member of the Society of Wildlife Artists in 2011.

£1,550

12. Shark Tooth

Mandale fossil limestone
 57x35x20cms
£1,550

Kevin is an archaeologist and stone sculptor based in mid-Wales. His early forms were influenced by his excavations in Canterbury and Salisbury Cathedrals, developing into forms based on nature and progressing to sculptures influenced by microscopic forms. New pieces for 2015 are a development of his long-term interest in archaeology.

15. Mulberry Pod

£2,300

Richard was born in London in 1955 and took a first degree in Photography. In Africa, as a VSO volunteer in the mid 1980s, he began wood sculpture in the high forests of the Rift Valley. Returning to England he began showing and being commissioned. An MA in Fine Art followed in the 1990s, after which he was elected as an Associate of the Royal British Society of Sculptors. Major commissions by the Wellcome Trust for their Genome Campus in Hinxton, exhibiting at Jesus College, Cambridge in their 'Sculpture in the Close' shows and in the Kettle's Yard Open Exhibitions, established the work locally and regionally.

EDWINA BRIDGEMAN

16. Cos After All

*Recycled plastic crates
4x3metres*

£1,230

Edwina trained in Technical Theatre, Rose Bruford College and later did a MFA at Bath Spa University. She has been making work from found objects for 20 years. Her most recent solo show 'Ship of Fools' was seen at the Victoria Art Gallery in Bath and marked a departure from her narrative style. The current work at Quenington is a further departure although the focus remains firmly on creating a sense of wonder in the discarded.

£4,345 for the installation

£135 each

Matt has an international art practice based in London working within the medium of glass and its applications. His artwork has developed into areas such as innovation and design, medical technology, digital craft and renewable energy. The up-cycling of the material has led to the set-up of the Glass Heap Challenge. His expertise in the properties of glass and its structures have seen him move from being a 'conventional' artist to the forefront of the world of tissue engineering. He now works with leading surgeons and researchers to create glass moulds for tissue and organ regeneration. This work was shown at the Power of Making, V&A museum in 2012. His award winning film set in Russia 'The Blessed Factory', winner of the Montpellier Film Festival Glass prize 2012, illustrates his connections with industry, art and making.

SALLY FAWKES MRBS RICHARD JACKSON MRBS

50. Planes of Observance

Cast glass, stainless steel
£12,000

In 2013 critic Mark Hudson of The Telegraph wrote of husband and wife duo Richard Jackson and Sally Fawkes as being stars in the niche market of garden-orientated sculpture. Fresh Air 2001 was their first venture into creating glass artworks for exterior locations and they have been continuing to do so ever since. 'Silent Secret' by Fawkes, purchased from Fresh Air 2001, resides in the Pool House garden at Quenington Old Rectory. Sally and Richard's glass artworks are internationally acclaimed with pieces in notable collections such as the V&A Museum, National Museums of Scotland and MUDAC, Lausanne, Switzerland.

Sam Herman stands at the very centre of the development of the Studio Glass Movement. He was not only present for the birth of the Movement, but he is its founding father in Great Britain and Australia. His influence is seminal - he inspired a generation of glass artists, developed revolutionary techniques and following his lead, colours in blown glass would become more textured and fluid. Sam has exhibited extensively throughout the world and his work is held in numerous public and private collections including, amongst many others, the Victoria & Albert Museum, Metropolitan Museum, Smithsonian, Art Institute of Chicago, Fitzwilliam Museum and the National Gallery of Victoria.

121. Wild Flower Bunny Sitting

Dyed, anodised aluminium
45x40cms
£740

Repeat orders can be taken for these sculptures

Caroline graduated from Bournemouth University in 2010 with a 1st class BA Hons in Applied Art and Design. She began working in her chosen medium of anodised aluminium in 2007. She hand prints with her own unique designs that take inspiration from the flora and fauna of the natural world. She runs her business as a maker alongside working as an arts education manager at a popular contemporary craft venue in Dorset. Projects have included giant swarms of butterflies adorning public spaces and school grounds, and laser cut designs hung in the garden of a children's hospice.

JACQUE PAVLOSKY122. Crystal Towers III

Glass assemblage of cut and pressed clear glass
80x80cms
£2,300

Jacque is an American glass artist living in England. Her work has been in many British exhibitions and this is her third exhibition with Fresh Air. Jacque has been a glass tutor at Bucks New University and works and teaches from her studio in Buckinghamshire.

COLIN REID

127. Strange Flower

*Cast glass, ground and carved,
Kilkenny Limestone base
165x39x15cms
£7,800*

Colin Reid is regarded as a pioneer in the field of kiln-cast glass. He exhibits internationally and has work in over 45 museum collections worldwide. Based in his studio in SW England, Colin has developed the expertise and facilities to handle large scale commissions in glass. Commissions for his series of tables cast from giant tropical leaves include the magnificent Musa Cavendishii table commissioned by the Devonshire Collection for Chatsworth House, UK. Colin recently won the prestigious Peoples Prize at the 2010 British Glass Biennale for his piece 'Still Life with Books'. He is an Associate of the Royal Society of British Sculptors and an honorary member of the Contemporary Glass Society. He is the winner of the 2012 Glass Sellers Prize at the British Glass Biennale and the prestigious Alexander Tutsek Award at the 2014 Coburg Glaspreis exhibition.

KATE RISDALE

*Mild steel
100x100cms
£1,150*

129. Swan 2

*Mild steel 100x100cms
£1,150*

Kate's unique making process has been likened to 'drawing in steel'. Inspired by the way animals move, her art has a light, fluid sensitivity despite the unyielding nature of the medium. Combining industrial elemental techniques and her intuitive awareness of her subjects, she instils life into her work.

The trustees would like to thank all those involved with Fresh Air 2015. To our two curators, Ana Bianchi and Miranda Leonard who have attracted interesting artists and have spent hours researching for this year's exhibition. It is with gritted teeth that we have accepted the retirement of Ana after curating Fresh Air since 2005, but we welcome Fran Spencer in her stead and have already enjoyed working with her this year. Fiona Haser co-curates, with Miranda, the Gallery in the Pool House whose content is anticipated with excitement.

Janet Page and Ana Bianchi have worked hard to create the user friendly and attractive website and Janet has also juggled many other roles including social media with invaluable Twitter assistance from Phil Cook.

For expert meeting and greeting and more we thank all our gate volunteers, and our special thanks go to the gate organisers, David Bostock and Janet Goddard. The feeding of the 5,000 seems achieved with ease by trustee Juliana Grose and Lizzie Fetzer. The accounting is faultless in the hands of Paula Lander. We are fortunate in having so many generous and skilled neighbours.

Head gardener Robert Wyatt and his team of Roger King and Karen Day not only create a beautiful backdrop but make artists' lives much easier by digging up chunks of the lawn for their installations. The wonderful team of secateur-bearing volunteers are invaluable too, the surroundings of each piece being so important. We could also not move much without our neighbouring farmers who, in the middle of harvest, still make time to come to our aid with their tractors.

The beautiful photographs are by Steve Russell. Our catalogue designer Rupert Purcell has an uncanny instinct for coming up with designs apt as well as beautiful.

The Education programme is indebted to the Summerfield Trust and the Notgrove Trust for their vital support for special needs school workshops. Miranda Leonard has organised the school and college programmes with the well-proven skills of Tessa Tyldesley, Laurie Plant, Charlotte Docking, Rebecca Kimberly, Sue Green, Amanda Griffiths and John Kimberley. Workshops are being organised by yarn bomber Julia Ball and Edwina Bridgeman with the Nelson Trust. A special mention for the children's fete at Coln St Aldwyns who made a generous donation.

Our gratitude is due to the Finnis Scott Trust, the Artisa Foundation and the Honourable Company of Gloucestershire for their generous support of our apprenticeship programme. Thank you also to Strutt and Parker for sponsoring a Bursary.

Thanks are due to Beryl Gollins for giving parking for the education team, to John Paz for permitting the overflow parking on Godwins Field and to the Quenington Parish Council. Thanks must go to our young volunteers, the RAF Cadets, the Sea Cadets and the Fairford Youth Group for their invaluable help organising parking.

Further thanks for generous sponsorship are due to Sanlam; and to Yuko Barter at Hitachi Europe Ltd, Stuart Redfern at Buildbase and the Cotswold District Council whose help in kind is invaluable. Our grateful thanks to R.K Harrison and AXA art for underwriting the exhibition's insurance.

As well as the invaluable help, the PTA fundraise by manning the bar and teas for the NGS garden opening, and thanks also to the Chedworth Silver Band. Lastly a very special thank you to our neighbours in Quenington who put up with so much over the three weeks... Oh yes and to Artse... where would any exhibition be without its Fringe?
